LAST ROUND —TOM TKO'd Sans Everything

Cabinet's internal "bloodless" coup which toppled PM Sir Thomas Davis last week ended nine years of almost unbroken control of the nation by the last of its "founding fathers".

The removal of the 70 year old PM by his Cabinet colleagues in favour of Rakahanga's long serving Pupuke Robati followed high drama, passion and confusion. It featured the most dramatic debate in the history of our Parliament.

In this issue...our survey of the events which left Sir Thomas Davis led to his corner in the final round of his career, beaten and "sans everything"!

...the Winner! and new Prime Minister of the Cook Islands ...Dr. Pupuke Robati!

Make the right decision

And so, by a long and tortuous path, government arrives back at what was widely rumoured "upstairs" to be the basis of the very first coalition agreement back in 1984 with Mr. Henry and the CIP.

That was, so they said, that Mr. Henry would take Deputy PM, Dr. Robati would take the curious new post of Chairman of Cabinet..and the Doctor would eventually get a 6 month run-in to the election as PM.

Well, Dr. Robati now has 18 months.

Demo supporters will approve. Dr. Robati is a proven hardworking politician who would normally merit a traditional "honeymoon" free from pressure. However, many potential crises face him. If he can rebuild national pride and unity in the face of them, he will merit a second term. All he has to do is show open government. We all know the job is a tough one. If there is an end to secrecy and backstage stuff, then we can all participate with government in the task of nation-building. But only if there is a stop to privilege, secret dealings and a nation in which we suffer and see the fruits of self-government picked by a Rarotongan elite and foreign investors. We offer Dr. Robati much respect and instinctive trust. We ask him to give us back, Maoris and newcomers, the country which has been taken away from us. We suggest an early proof.

As a special request, from all CI writers and journalists, this paper calls upon our PM to put an end to the stream of government and Tourist authority writers, journos, cameramen, PhD hunters, and assorted wandering artists who deprive our writers of a dignified full-time existence. The government has imported them (especially Aussies) in their droves. We can name a dozen of our own far far better.

The astonishing events of the last week are guaranteed to upset and careful editorial plans. Especially if they were geared to a not too strenuous enjoyable celebration of Constitution

In the Outer Islands, we have to rely on the radio together fragments of information gleaned from Rarotongan arrivals and such has been the case this week

From it all, we have put together in our English section an independent survey of the epic political events of last week. It is especially important for us on Atiu as our own Minister was at the heart of the "bloodless" coup. The fact that this paper welcomes the changes, however, does not diminish our lasting respect for Tom Davis, the fighter for CI freedom and if our survey appears harsh at times, it is because we believe Sir Thomas' sincere policies —wrong...as wrong as Tom's used to be right.

"—Can WE Recover?

Election Jitters — All Parties Desperately Seeking Survival

Oh what a marvellous time the opposition had! First, there was the Great Quorum Hunt, the opposition's contribution to which (according to Iaveta Arthur) was to laugh and giggle in the corridor and make sure they were first at the dinner table! Even allowing for parliamentary licence on Mr. Arthur's part, the opposition's role seems only marginally less reprehensible than that of government(since the rest of us get fired or charged by Dick Chapman for not turning up for work!)

Then, joy of joys, the opposition got handed a cabinet deshuffle. The Indians had fired the Chief.

What fun. What a great time to be in opposition, thought every one.

But pause awhile before, like CI News (also back in the business of running an opposition paper while collecting a government salary...thank god they're not working for the JOURNAL for who needs enemies when you've got employees like the writer of Friday's front page piece) ...before working out how to get on the right side of Geoff or Vince before it's too late.

Look carefully and you'll see, possibly, that the opposition end up a whole lot worse off than the new government.

Dr. Robati is now firmly set on the path to reuniting the Demos. Matepi ministry will loosen Papa Aberahama's half-nelson on Mangaian politics. Thus Pa gets weaker and with Vince reportedly going to suffer from the Atupa boundaries (plus a daily more Thatcheresque Tina even though she may think twice about running against Dad), the Demo rebs are decidely more on the outer. With Most Wanted Man Tom out of the way, the onus will increasingly be on the Terrible Twins to get out Pa's engineering books to do a spot of bridge-building!

Geoff is inclined to get high blood pressure when reporters talk of leadership crises. But though Takuvaine seem to have got themselves together as red-red winners again, the CIP's are now solidly split 3½ ways. The Slippery Six refused to cross the floor and form a Geoff-led government. Hugh issued a 1000 word papal decree the next morning conspicuous for its absence of a rallying call behind the leader of the formal CIP opposition. And all the time, Surgeon Joe is beyond the reef slitting his way into the hearts of the NZ electorate.

And Pai moves from No. 5 in Ngatangiia (work it out) to No.1 and Raymond, Bill and Mariri get parole for 18 months by which time Dr Robati may be able to see out the twentieth century before handing over to an Atiuan.

Come, come, you tut-tutting spoil sports, it's still the best show in town. Admit it.

Can we recover? Of course! The election's due. All parties are seeking survival. That's good socialist news. Lifestyle politics doesn't win votes. Little Miss Lifestyle has a super body which can be held against a member. If the member isn't very careful.

IN PASSING

DEAR JOE,

Kia orana. Even those who, like me, must rank about 998th on the alleged list of creditors revealed in the now notorious Sunday News expose, can find some good things to say!

Some of us, in fact, are inclined to place the Sunday News on the side of the villains in the affair. They wouldn't have a clue what it involves breaking through the old pals set-up which controls CI politics and CI business. At least one over here was set up smooth and easy by his foreign Dad. He didn't have to come the Aitutaki scholarshipper route. Nor find that the rules of the Papa'a money game also involved a government policy of red carpets for foreign investors and "try your luck and watch us laugh when you collapse" for citizens.

The cold anger of your alleged creditors, Joe, is clean and honest. Such is not the case with those who rubbished your newspaper - the first with the guts to hammer our contented establishment.

Your mate and still unpaid employee,

J'accuse

Our Netball internationals are off to the World Champs. I'm proud to see them go. They're beautiful-marvellous-lovely etc. and so forth....

They're also going to lose. And I don't care about that. Only on one team wins a World Champs. The next best thing is to establish your nation on the world ranking list. And it was said by local officials earlier this year that we were shooting for No. 5 slot. Fine. If we make it, we will be winners.

I'll be very proud-happy-joyful etc. and so forth....

If we lose, I'm not likely to be that at all. I and others are likely to be pretty fed up. For our girls are proven great winners. I accuse them also of being in the past the lousiest, excuse riddled losers the CI has ever produced.

"The refs were biased", "the others cheated", "we were sick", "were tired". "we were....." all things - except beaten by a better team! We have always "gained experience" or had "no luck".

Sure, girls, you're great etc. But, this time when you lose. Say so! It's called dignity. The mark of a sportsperson. And, surprise surprise, we'll love you even more!

Etc. And so forth...

STATEMENT

We have had a number of enquiries about ADS or ADC. Among them is a letter from Mrs. K. Malcolm. We will be printing it in our next issue. ——(Mrs. Malcolm, as a relative of a staff member would not normally be given "letters" privileges. However, her letter is of a very similar nature to other enquiries we have had following our publication of an interview with the (quote) "interim manager" of this company. It has been thus decided to print it in the public interest)

NOTE: The JOURNAL's position on ADS/ADC is quite clear and already stated. This proposed company appears to have potential to affect every citizen of Atiu. We therefore report our call to both members to obtain an independent top quality feasibility study of all ventures in which ADS/ADC is involving itself and to ensure that all investment and employment is undertaken in accordance with the spirit of legislation enacted in the public interest. Mrs. Malcolm's husband is a staff member. The owner of the JOURNAL is in business in another area. Both Mrs. Malcolm and the JOURNAL owner could be severely hit commercially by rumoured moves of the ADS/ADC.

This paper is independent and has now OPENLY declared its areas of self-interest. All those involved in ADS/ADC are called upon to do likewise!

Atiu Scene

We note the presence of our sister from CIBNC. We note the massive involvement of every sector of the community. We note the estimated $10,000 private dollars spent on costumes and preparation. We note untold hours spent on rehearsal. We note, in summary, the astonishing efforts of the Atiu people to make CONSTITUTION 22 a celebration which will last long in the memory.

It is something which our friends and fellow citizens in Rarotonga seem to have forgotten.

It is that CONSTITUTION WEEK is a time for pride, purpose, effort and fun!

It is, after all, a time to celebrate why we are where we are. Free, independent and doing our own thing.

That "thing" is well in evidence.

Ph. R. Malcolm

Teiotu Tangatapoto

Even solid organisational work by Island Council Chairman, Tangatapoto Teiotu and his fellow members and CAO Moetaua Boaza has not prevented those involved also having "fun".

All in all, the mood is right, the spirit is there, the work has been done, the organisation is good and the people are determined to have a good time.

Reminders of the more serious side of CONSTITUTION were given at the opening of Friday's float parade by Ombudsman, Papa Tangata Simiona.

"Remember you children," he said to the inevitable horde of young onlookers, "education is everything. And this is all part of your education as young Atiuans. I want you to listen.

CONSTITUTION 22 THE ATIU WAY

Ph. T. Kelly

Leading the way in the Constitution celebrations is most clearly government, led from the front by CAO Moetaua Boaza.

Heavily criticised at first for its independent attitude, Atiu is now receiving great praise for its initiative, espcially some quietly effective leadership from Mr. Boaza.

DOUBTING THOMAS! —overstayer!

No interview in a Cook Islands paper has been franker or more controversial than this.

18 months ago, when the COOK ISLANDS TIMES was reportedly about to be banned by Sir Thomas Davis, the only government member who would speak to it was Foreign Minister Norman George. Perhaps understandably, the TIMES was the first paper anywhere to predict that the Atiuan MP would become PM one day. The reporter was the current editor of the JOURNAL. It was one of many, many interviews done in the years since Norman George became a Minister. On each occasion threats of dire retribution followed from the Minister's enemies. On Sunday, they conducted the latest of the ongoing series. This time, however, it was for an independent paper...and the talk was startlingly frank...

COOK ISLANDS POLITICS AS YOU'VE NEVER READ IT BEFORE!

J: Minister, what happened ? Why the coup ?
NG: It was the removal of a PM who no longer enjoyed the support of cabinet or caucus. There were a whole series of matters and he proved impossible to work with over a long period of time. He was a dictator. His rule was totalitarian without the one thing a totalitarian regime requires...some kind of mass support. He had only one support. Himself. And he put himself up in competition against the rest of the cabinet team. That means he was no leader. Just a dictator who couldn't work with anyone.
J: What were the specific problems you all faced?
NG: A long ongoing problem was the Turamanui Project. We knew the people had no time for it and they let us know if we proceeded it would be the end of the Democratic Party/CIP coalition at the next election. It was a mad scheme. It would have cost the tax payer 20 million at impossible interest rates. It had very suspicious shareholdings and we strongly suspected graft was involved. It was rejected by caucus and rejected by cabinet but he took no notice. He said he was going ahead with it anyway. That's gun point democracy and we weren't standing for it.
J: Were there other major disputes ?
NG: Plenty. But the last straw was when he removed $150000 from the Budget without even telling us in order to promote his pet Rarotongan priorities at the expense of the Mangaian farmers who want to take over their factory. That was his final mistake. None of us would stand for it.
J: It was unanimous concern ?
NG: All along. Especially over the frequent bizarre involvements in dubious foreign deals. But he had utter tunnel vision. He wouldn't listen to anyone. And he upset many people by his conduct.
J: Such as?
NG: He was extremely rude and very bad-tempered. He swore a lot and some of his public behaviour, I found outrageous.
J: Was the coup motivated by personal ambition?
NG: I think not. We are in a CIs. environment. More than any political office we value our standing in our communities. C.Iserg will understand that. We will not be walked over and lose all respect in our communities. Politics is settled at each election. It is not our prime motivation. Our standing in our communities is our pride. That was put in danger by the antics of the PM. We had to act.
J: And the political side...?
NG: He openly renegued on the terms of the original formation of the coalition. Both sides accepted, and he agreed, that he was getting old and would step down gracefully after a reasonable period to make way for his Party successor, Dr. Robati. He disregarded that agreement in spite of being reminded of it. He was utterly self-centred and encouraged by "his people".
J: You mean by the "people upstairs".
NG: Yes.
J: How do you see things now?
NG: I see far greater unity.
J: Did Matepi become a minister to tighten up the party problems in Mangaia ?
NG: No comment. Except to say it is unlikely we would do anything to weaken us in Mangaia. And to point out that Matepi Matepi is the 2nd. most senior member and his appointment marks respect for him and for Mangaia.
J: And what about Atiu's future
NG: Tom was a disaster for the Outer Islands. The Outer Is. will benefit now from greater understanding. And great things are coming to Atiu. Within six months in all sorts of areas. Especially tourism.
J: What position do you hold?
NG: I am Chairman of Cabinet and equal second with Terepai Maoate. Personally, I am happy. In politics it's one thing at a time.I've no burning ambition to be PM.
J: Are you contemplating a move to a Rarotongan seat.
NG: This is my island. I stick with it. I am an Atiuan.
J: Are you afraid of the battering you're going to get in the House?
NG: I am ready. My guns are loaded!

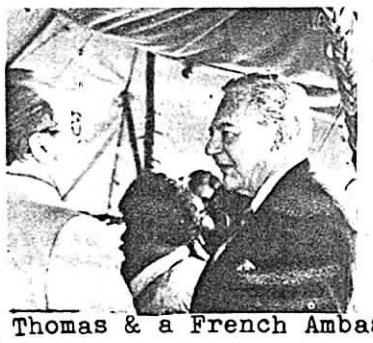
Essay

End of an Era



Sir Thomas & a French Ambassador

The downfall of Sir Thomas Davis, coming as it does on top of Gaston Flosse's ouster from the "Presidency" of Tahiti and the election defeat of Ratu Mara in Fiji is considerably more than a temporary setback to right wing Pacific politics.

It ought to be the final discrediting of rightist development strategies. It will not be. It is likely merely to drive the right underground. And there, out of sight, the forces of the right are probably going to be a lot more devious. We can expect a whole set of new catchphrases to replace "stability" as the means to persuading the timorous centre of Pacific politics that foreign investment should be permitted to continue on its merry cocktail circuit round the atolls and the taro swamps.

They will be back...those apologists of the right. Maybe not in the corporeal shape of Davis Flosse and Mara (although don't be too sure of that) but they will be back. Plus ça change, Norman....

The left will have to be satisfied with a quiet gloat or two. The worker, whether housewife, planter or public servant, will not even have that.

But, when all's said and done, the left has had a good year in 1987. Not the centre left. They never have a good year. Every year is spent wrestling with the identity crisis. But, for the hard left (Pacific style) it's been much better than average.

(Right) Feudal relevance!

The workers struck in Papeete (at least the dockers did). Western style democracy got its comeuppance in Fiji and the centre left is running out of handkerchiefs to weep into. And now, Sir Thomas has buried buried up to his neck in discredited coalitionomics. And.. his successors are likely to find themselves forced along the same foreign "sell-out" strategy path Sir Thomas stumbled along.

Yes indeed, the left can take time off for a passing gloat.

And not without just cause. The Big Three followed each other into political catastrophe because in each case the workers had had enough! In Flosse's case, the dockers delivered the message with some violence. In Mara's, the voters did it. In our own country it was the concerted force of village and constituency rumbling that finally persuaded the cabinet and caucus that they would all be back in the swamp come 1989 if things went on the way they were.

Meanwhile, in the gemdarme-bashed, hurricane-ravaged lost hinterwaters of the Pacific, the tui-tui flame of independence and people's development is kept flickering by the Temarus, Tebais, Momises, Tjibaous and Linis keeping one eye on the masses and the other on the Libyans!

They have renounced Lifestyle politics, Lifestyle Development and Lifestyle politicians. They offer only ideals and a call to live within the nation's means. It is not a popular voice among the Lifestylers. Nor among their foreign investor friends. But it is the voice of the people if the leadership is willing to hear it and listen to it. It is the only voice offering real hope. Pupuke and Norman will soon be forced by circumstance off the easy centrist track they now follow. Soon they will be forced into the rougher terrain which lies to the right or the left of them. It's their choice.

They can expect little help from the people. The people have had enough. They prefer waiting and watching the show.

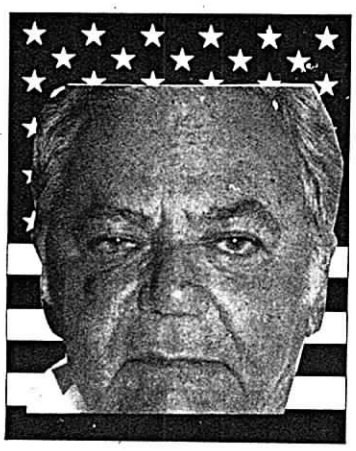
JOURNAL WORLD

Hypocrisy, betrayal and greed

National Review

It is in the relationship of the Cook Islands to the rest of the big wide world that Sir Thomas Davis' national policy was founded. It became an obsession. It probably still is, for Sir Thomas does not easily accept that he may be in error.

History will surely record that Sir Thomas brought the Cook Islands out into the light of the world. Not for nothing is his hard-fought Airline called Cook Islands International. It was Sir Thomas who made it International.



Sir Thomas Davis KBE

His other legacy which stemmed directly from our new-found contact with the world was "Lifestyle" Development. "I see nothing wrong in giving Maoris the chance to be rich," he said once. And, as if to prove it, in came VIP lounges, globe-trotting from Washington to Paris and back, Jaguars, expense accounts and enormous levels of political patronage.

Sadly, it will be for "Lifestyle" in its most flagrant form for which Sir Thomas will be remembered in the near future. Not his cherished infrastructural policies nor for the hard unpublicised PIC work. With all his understanding of America and the big wide world he had hauled his country into, however, it is curious that his fall really came came about through his failure to heed one classic American lesson. His PR was utterly lousy!

With one notable exception, he surrounded himself with people who told him what he wanted to hear. Not what he needed to hear.

Perhaps because they so merited his despisal at times, they were the very people he loved to have around him.

They were only too happy to go along for the ride, leaving Sir Thomas to handle the world the only way he believes a Cook Islander should handle it...by leaving it all to the man who understands it.

Sir Thomas Davis....

And Sir Albert Henry.

We are once again diminished as a nation.

We slaughter our leaders. And even now are lining up Pupuke and Norman for the kill!

Radical re-thinking

R. Malcolm

JOHN M. RYBSKI

Us Peace Corps SP Director John Rybski's recent visit to Atiu highlighted sharp divisions in the national philosophy towards the hard grass-roots work of "project development" in the classic development sense and government's apparent commto "Lifestyle" developm-ent...a combination often said to be a blend of government aid for the weak and entrepreneurship for those who can make it that way. Mr. Rybski would not comment on the ethics of either style but noted that US Peace Corps were committed to the former approach. He did add that he felt that possibly the more recent approach was maybe more favoured in Rarotonga.

R. Malcolm

Rev Arioka - Minister CICC

His visit prompted local thinking on the subject of classic "project development" schemes. Commenting on his feelings towards Atiu's current attitude towards basic unpublicised hard work, departing CICC minister Arioka told the JOURNAL that he hoped priorities would always lie in the direction of hard work and not mere enjoyment and easy success routes. Whatever the answer, both visitors and residents have expressed recent concern at the level of pure hard work offered on Atiu in the area of project development as on offer from US and NZ.

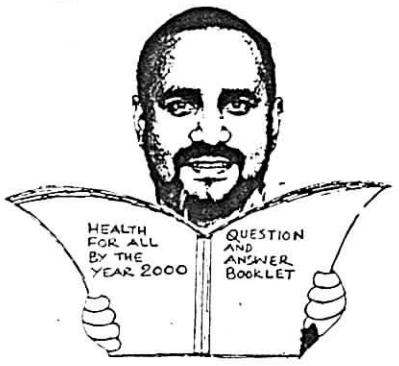
DEAR DOCTOR... — Medicine —



QUESTION

Doctors tell me not to drink alcohol - a good food! Why?

Dear Reader,

Amongst high energy foods, alcohol is the costliest and the deadliest, killing people in seconds (by accidents) and over years (liver damage etc). Initially valued as a "kick" or for proving yourself socially, once inside you it breaks co-ordination between mind and body

Ever since Noah made his epic discovery (Genesis) in the name of "struggle for happiness" and "warding off misery", alcohol has caused family break-ups, turned wives into widows, smeared innocent blood on the roads and promoted other vices (smoking & anti-social behaviour, and even furthered crime (rape etc). Men have even raped daughters under alcoholic influence.

If ever possible, occasional social drinking may cause no harm no others but you must consider, dear reader, these facts:

-Alcohol depresses the brain. Due to the removal of inhibitions, one may become hyperactive Initially, finer grades of judg-ment, reflection and observation are lost. Then the power to control moods. It reduces visual activity, delays recovery from visual dazzle. It impares taste, smell, hearing, muscle co-ordination, steadiness and prolongs reaction time. In addition to double/blurred vision, performance ability reduces and self-confidence increases. Attentiveness and ability to assimilate, sort and quickly take decisions on continuously changing information input decline. So, even God will find it hard to prevent an accident when the driver is drunk!

- Alcohol dilates the skin blood vessels. Hence there is a feeling of warmth but more heat loss. So it is undesirable if one has to go out in the cold.

-If, on medical advice, it is used as a pain reliever and hypnotic, it can serve a purpose. It can be used to provide instant energy for the weak. It can be used as an acid secretor as a diuretic, as a hypnotic and broncholialator in asthma and to improve sexual functions in anxiety related disorders.

- It causes many psychotic states (mental disorders), nutritional disorders and deficiencies, permanent liver damage, chronic heart failure, disease of the peripheral nerves, dementia memory loss, deterioration in social habits, slurred speech and gait epilepsy...in addition to poverty and family/social problems.

Pregnant drinking mothers give to weak and malformed babies. Deaths due to this cause among mothers and babies are more common than one may realise.

Will alcohol really bring happiness ?

Have a happy, sober Constitution.....both in the nation and the body!!

FOOD

Subhash Vatsyayann continues her popular series on the natural herbs of Atiu with a LOOK at "renga"

Ginger (Renga/Ta. Rea) is nature's best antiseptic food for the digestion and the digestive system. It is a stimulant and a toner for the liver. It cures indigestion. It also acts as a carminative (relieves gas) and a stool softener.

It is a good antiseptic for the mouth, throat and respiratory system. It can act as an expectorant expelling slimy matter.

It also improves the body metabolism and tones up the uterine and other related muscles after the delivery of a baby.

GINGER RECIPES:

-Sweet Ginger Balls (25gm each): Heat 150gm of butter. Add 250 gm wheat flour. Stir to turn brown. Add dried dillseed powder (about 75gm), dried ginger powder (250gm), brown sugar (200 gm) and 2 grated coconuts. Stir thoroughly. Make up into balls and eat one or two with milk daily after delivery for 3-4 months for the health and strength of mother and baby.

-Ginger Tea: Crush a little piece of ginger and put it into boiling water for 1 minute.

-Ginger Pickle: Put a few cloves of garlic, some cut pieces of ginger and a pinch of salt in a bottle with lime juice.

-Ginger Chutney: Add mint leaves, a small amount of ginger and lime juice, plus a pinch of salt. Crush and make chutney.

-Dry Ginger Powder: Mix a pinch of dried ginger in cakes and cookies.

-Cut pieces: Put into all meat and fish dishes including curries.

The Media - Let them all come to Atiu, says Tepou Boaza.

"I was going to write you a letter," said Atiu's Raro-Office chief, Tepou Boaza, "but I thought I'd come and tell you instead!"

Tepou is currently accompanying Minister Norman George on the Ministerial Visit for Constitution Day.

"I was hoping to stay with you but the Minister thought maybe I wouldn't get enough work done!" he added.

Tepou is staying at the CAO residence with wife Freda, a former colleague of JOURNAL editor, David Lewis, during COOK ISLANDS TIMES days.

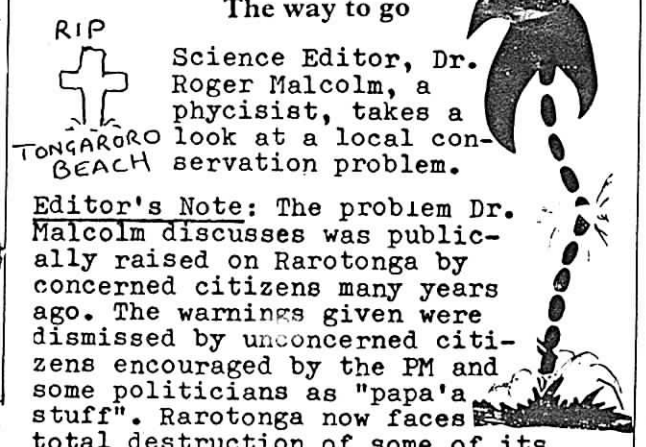
And Tepou's message ?

"I really approve of the JOURNAL as it's important for the people to get information. I want to see the media come to Atiu. Papers. Radio...yes..and TV. Why not ?"

The full text of Tepou's interview will be in our next issue.

SCIENCE

The way to go



Science Editor, Dr. Roger Malcolm, a phycisist, takes a look at a local conservation problem.

Editor's Note: The problem Dr. Malcolm discusses was publically raised on Rarotonga by concerned citizens many years ago. The warnings given were dismissed by unconcerned citizens encouraged by the PM and some politicians as "papa'a stuff". Rarotonga now faces total destruction of some of its foreshore and only a concerted effort by Tony Utanga's Conservation Team offers any hope for the long-term survival of our capital island's beaches.

BEACH RAPE!

Today the jewel of the C.Is. is pregnant with bulging rocks. There is no longer a smooth, pleasant run-on beach. The morning jog along the sand may end with a stubbed toe.

Tangaroro Beach, once described as "one of the best beaches in the Cook Islands" is suffering from the repeated attacks of gangs of workers taking sand for building purposes.

The beach rape will continue. The rocks now "grow" faster as Atiu workers have discovered a new labour-saving method to get sand. By using a Hiab Truck with a 44 gallon drum attached to the crane and parked at the cliff edge, sand can be lifted straight off the beach. Tongaroro is one of the few beaches that lends itself to this sort of operation.

Practicing What We Preach

Churches tend to be known more by what they do than by what they say. We are all familiar with the kinds of questions a results-oriented society poses: What has your church accomplished? What are you doing for people?

Sometimes we are frustrated by such questions because we want to preach more than demonstrate what we believe. Often preaching is easier. Fortunately, we have learned it is not enough. Actions are more convincing than words.

For example, we say Christians should feed the hungry and clothe the naked. That is the message Christ preached. But he also did it.

During recent months it has not been difficult to find those who need help. The mass media has focused attention on large numbers of people—whole cities, regions—suffering from calamities.

We do these things to help people. In so doing, we add credibility to our preaching.

Many congregations find ways to help persons in need.

— CHANCE TO LIVE

SHORT STORY by Nga Tanga

This new short story by young Atiuan writer, Nga Tanga is inspired by her feelings about the nuclear disarmament issue in the Pacific.

What would I give just to be alive and dancing on that wonderful shore again. A chance to live is all I asked for. What would I give just to hug my mother again. A chance to live is all I am asking for.

Why did these men land on my island ? I thought they came on a visit. To make us laugh. To give us presents. I never dreamed they were coming to take my home away from me.

How could life be so cruel ? As I lay thirking what fantastic men they were in their smart and shiny blue uniforms, it never occurred to me that they had come for one purpose.

Uneducated though my people were, they lived their lives easy-going and tr trusting. Happy, merry and humourous. It was that mistake that we made on that day when we openly welcomed those cold blooded people on to our shores.

But I would never blame my people because how could thay have foreseen the heartbreak that they would place in each mother breast ?

Why,God? Why? Why this way? I wnat to live, God. I want my chance to live. A chance to fulfil my life's dreams is all I ask for.

That day they forced us off our island, I thought they were just taking us on a trip. I never thought they would betray the friendship we had shown them. How blind we must have been.

But I felt no friendship towards them on that day. I realised their purpose. But how could I have spoken my knowledge aloud ? Youngsters were never permitted to speak unless asked to.

How my feelings surged with hate in my heart as I surveyed these strangers with utter disgust.

A month later, we returned to our homeland. A home which was precious to us. But they had not warned us about the chemical poisons now in our coconut trees and our vegetables. Nor the effect they would have on us.

As time went by, my friends kept away from me. I could not blame them. The effects of radiation were on me. I was doomed for sure. My hair began to fall from my head. My vision was blurred. My face disfigured. My arms, my legs distorted. I knew my life was to end.

I know it for sure now. Why, God ? Why ? I want a chance to live until I am ready to die. Why, God ? I am too young for death. I am only asking for a chance to live. God ? A chance to live.

A chance to li.....

A chance.....

In 1946, Bikini Islanders were evacuated from their island

We have all spent the week witness ing the often mysterious world of Karate-Do. To some of us it has been the first real-life look at what we see on the movies on Fridays outside Mokoroa's. To others, it has been an introduction to a new style of life. Next Issue, the JOURNAL will tell you what is means to us! But first, Sensei Chris Desss kindly gave the JOURNAL the following account of what is Karate-Do to experts like himself.

"In today's society where children are learning many wrong things such as drinking, drugs, sex abuse, disrespect for parents and breaking the law...the only art-sport left to teach discipline is Karate-Do.

Not only do the students have to keep a perfect character but most of all the instructor (sensei) has to set a good example to his students by his daily lifestyle.

I myself as an instructor of karate-Do have studied this art for 25 years. It may take years to get to Shodan black belt level. It takes very hard training of body and mind. But highest of all is self-discipline.

Many people think Karate is only fighting. This is not true.In a proper Japanese DoJo (training for Karate) there are very strict rules. And it is these rules that many students cannot or do not have the will-power to learn. Only the very best will reach Shodan Black Belt level after many years of study.

I aim to take a CI team to Okinawa next year. I believe it will be a first for the C. Is.

I am sure that if the young men and women of Atiu study karate they will grow up to become better citizens.

As a parent myself, I ask you to help our children to grow up in a better world. My love and thanks to the people of Atiu.

God Bless you all,

Chris Dessa (sensei)"

Competition

Most of us think we are experts on National Sport. How good are YOU ? The following competition offers some fun over the holiday period and also may test your memories of Cook Islands sport. First correct solution to be opened on the editor's desk at 4.00 p.m. Friday 14 August 4.00 p.m. will receive $5.00

1. Name the Atiuan National 1986 BCG star pictured below
2. Name the runner who won the first ever CI athletics medal at the 1963 SP Games.
3. Where were the 1969 SPG held
4. Which Atiuan coached the 1985 CI gold medal rugby team at the Mini-Games ?

ROWS! Judges?

Controversy struck the Atiu Constitution celebrations within seconds of the close of the first event on Friday, the float parade.

Argument still raged on Sunday night at the Imene Tuki contest.

By the end of the evening it had all reached boiling point as yet again disagreements clouded the end of the night.

The centre of the storm ? The old bugbear of all organisers, JUDGING!

Committee member Junior Vainerere reported to the JOURNAL that the float judges were heavily criticised for giving a clear runaway win to the Health and Admin Department.

"They are not happy that the head of Health was one of the judges who gave the verdict," said Mr. Vainerere.

The main complainants are said to be the Agriculture Department who are reported to believe widely that they ought to have won.

them!

Said a judge when contacted, "No comment. We made our decision."

It was Agriculture again who are reported to have been unhappy with their third placing behind EPS and Education in the Imene Tuki voting.

"They feel there is general unfairness going on," said Mr. Vainerere.

The committee member said the judges' verdicts are final and there is no appeal. There are no special briefings for judges planned.

"They're doing a good job," he said, "and I thank them for their work. It is not an easy task. I wish them the best for the remainder of the week."
